

REPEAT SUMMER SCHOOL THIS YEAR

School Board Approves Project Started Last Year by U. of P.

SCHOOL GIVEN A PIANO

There will be a summer school in the borough again this year. This decision was reached at the January meeting of the Narberth School Board at which all the members were present.

This summer session, conducted under the auspices of the School of Education of the University of Pennsylvania, proved so successful last year, that it was unanimously agreed to continue the extra session. The school, which is run with no expense to the Narberth school district, will include grades five to eight with a possibility of a fourth grade being added. It enabled students to make up deficiencies as well as to gain in their standings.

The board will continue to work in co-operation with the Art Alliance of Philadelphia, which provides a series of pictures and paintings loaned to the schools at a yearly cost of $10 to the school district. This will be the third year this service has been in operation in the local schools, Narberth being one of the first school districts to avail itself of this service.

The board accepted with thanks the gift of a piano for the school, the donor being Mrs. Charles G. Palmer, of Homewood avenue. It will be used in the first grades of the public school.

In accordance with the usual custom, the Narberth public schools will be closed on February 22, Washington's birthday. The dates for the Easter vacation were also announced. The schools will close on Wednesday, March 27, at the finish of classes and reopen Tuesday morning, April 2.

Announcement was also made that children who will become five years of age by June 1, 1929, may be enrolled in the kindergarten for the current year. This lowering of the age requirement by several months is made possible through the present small enrollment.

Tailors' Association Holds First Banquet

The first annual banquet of the Main Line Tailors and Cleaners' Association will be held on Thursday, February 7, at the Brookline Square Club. The guests of honor at the affair will be Judge Eugene V. Alessandrini, Harry C. Bare and W. Russell Green.

The date was decided upon at a meeting of the Entertainment Committee headed by Joseph Adelizzi on Wednesday night.

The association, which embraces the majority of the tailoring and cleaning organizations on the Main Line from Bala-Cynwyd to Berwyn, was formed last year with the object of raising the standards of service and promoting co-operation within the trade.

New officers will be elected at the meeting on the second Tuesday in February. The present officials of the body include the following: President, Max Simon, Bryn Mawr; vice president, Vincent Troncelliti, Ardmore; corresponding secretary, N. S. Fitti, Ardmore; financial secretary, Alfred E. Calandra, Berwyn; treasurer, A. Talone, Ardmore. The board of directors, headed by Vincent Troncelliti, chairman, is as follows: Albert Goldberg, Bryn Mawr; Charles Hewitt, Narberth; Harry Mongin, Cynwyd; M. Dagan, Ardmore; M. Natale, Wayne; Joseph Adelizzi, Cynwyd and Narberth; Rubin Blafkin, Cynwyd; Joseph Troncelliti, Bryn Mawr; Alfred Calandra, Berwyn; Nicholas Zinni, Ardmore, and Frederick Mosciangelo, Wayne. Meetings of the association are held the second Tuesday of every month.

King's Daughters

The regular meeting of the Evangel Circle of King's daughters will be held on Wednesday, February 6, at 10.30 at the home of Mrs. Hewitt, 116 Essex avenue.

Mothers to Attend Parent-Teacher Session

On Friday, February 1, there will be an all-day training class in parent-teacher work at the Philadelphia Normal School. This will be conducted by Mrs. Charles Rose, national field secretary of the Congress of Parents and Teachers. This meeting is for the Southeastern District of Pennsylvania. Among those of the Narberth Mothers' Council planning to attend are Mrs. Griswold, Perry, Town, Schock, Purcell, Tapp, Burgeron and Aungst. Other mothers wishing to go please communicate with any of the above.

The second lecture in a series being given by James Heberling, of the University of Pennsylvania, will be delivered on Monday night, February 4, at 8 o'clock in the Narberth school. All are cordially invited to attend.

TWO TEAMS FAIL TO HALT MAROON

Chester Defeated, 30 to 23; Lansdowne Loses Close Contest.

L. M. ON TOP LEAGUE

Lower Merion High School won a closely-contested Suburban League game last Friday night at Chester against the hard fighting team from the Chester High School. Following this victory on Friday night, the team came through last Tuesday afternoon to win from Lansdowne High at the senior high gymnasium by another close score.

The victory at Chester by a score of 30 to 23 kept Lower Merion on the top of the league with four victories and one defeat. Abington is trailing close behind with three and one. Abington defeated Norristown on the same night at Abington by a decided margin. Lockwood, Sigel and Mandes contributed the offensive strength at Chester, with 10, eight, and six points, respectively.

Lansdowne brought a veteran squad to Ardmore, a group of boys who are finished in the art of feinting, pivoting and shooting, but Lower Merion managed to keep the run of victories going by compiling a total of 30 points while Lansdowne could gather only 25. Stevenson, Lansdowne center, led the boys of both teams in scoring with a total of 12 points. Lockwood followed close on his heels with 10. Captain Kohlhas, followed him closely with eight points. Sigel and Mandes with two field goals each helped on the offensive. Mandes' guarding was again of high order. This victory makes the fourth straight for Lower Merion and a record of eight out of 10 games for the season.

To Lecture on Prisons at Women's Club Meeting

One of the subjects being studied for betterment by the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs is the new prison farm project. The lecture to be given on February 5 at 2.30 P. M. at the regular meeting of the Women's Community Club by Albert E. Frazer, on "Prisons and Prisoners," will be a fine help in understanding this need.

Mr. Frazer is thoroughly conversant with his subject being a director of the Prison Welfare Society and spending most of his time in giving help to prisoners while confined and especially in placing men when released in positions where they may become good citizens again and fit into their place in society.

The talk on "line and color" given by Miss Mason on Thursday, January 31, at 2.30, and the fashion show of the dressmaking class where the gowns completed and worn by the members, who, under the instruction of Miss Beades and Miss Mason, had designed and made these lovely creations, was well attended and enjoyed. Twenty-four members have worked in this class and have praised the group dressmaking plan. Look for the well-gowned women on the streets; they are the dressmaking class members.

Little Miss Stevens Wins Literary Honors

The January issue of the American Girl Magazine announces the winners of its recent contest of criticism of the magazine, and the picture of Miss Jane Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Stevens, of 420 Haverford avenue, appears in that issue. Her essay will appear in the February "American Girl."

In addition to a valuable prize Jane has been appointed a junior editor of the magazine. This is the third time she has won literary honors, having had stories accepted by the "Detroit News," and was made a member of the "Young Writers' Club of Detroit," on her visit to that city last June.

She is 13 years old and has always attended the convent of the Sisters of Mercy, on Montgomery avenue, Merion.

CHILD LABOR EVILS WIN CONDEMNATION

Mrs. H. O. Peebles, Cynwyd, Urges Legislative Reforms.

STATE IS 38TH LOWEST

Members of the legislative group of the Narberth Women's Community Club and their friends met on Tuesday at their Club room to hear talks on child labor by Mrs. H. O. Peebles, of Cynwyd, and on birth control by Mrs. H. Wilson Moorehouse, Wynnewood.

That two of the objects worked for by the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs had been accomplished was pointed out by the chairman of the meeting, Mrs. E. C. Town; namely, 100 per cent. voting registration among clubwomen, and the signing of the Kellogg multi-lateral treaty.

Mrs. Peebles, who is chairman of the Welfare Board of the Southeastern district of Pennsylvania, astonished her hearers by announcing that Pennsylvania stands 38th in rank in regard to the adequacy of its child labor laws. "The reforms needed," the speaker said, "are 1. double compensation; 2. eight-hour day and 48-hour week for children under 16; 3. 45-minute lunch period for boys and girls; 4. no night work or work before 7 A. M.; 5. provision for the migratory child."

"One of the evils," Mrs. Peebles pointed out, "is that Pennsylvania has no control over Philadelphia children who work in New Jersey where the laws are exceedingly lax and not well enforced. A total of 1920 children started school there last fall, chiefly Italian children of Philadelphia, 38 per cent. of whom were under 10 years of age and 95 per cent. of whom were working in either New Jersey fields or in sweat shops."

Mrs. Moorehouse, secretary of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Birth Control Federation, was introduced by Mrs. F. T. Van Aken. "Today," Mrs. Moorehouse said, "there is no adequate statute covering birth con-

Walbaum and Mrs. Harold W. How, executive secretaries, at the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church on Tuesday, followed by the annual business meeting.

As Miss Walbaum's and Mrs. How's resignations as active executive secretaries take effect February 1, the address of the president, Dr. Mutch, took the form of an expression of apprecia-

Affairs made by the members were sent to hospitalized ex-service men, and a monthly contribution to non-compensated Pennsylvania men in Ward and Oteen Hospital, North Carolina, also contributed monthly to child welfare department for care of children of ex-service men. At Christmas time the unit took care of five hospitalized men, sent cigarettes, candies, mits to hospitals, No. 49 and Perry Point, and took care of two families of ex-service men.

To Report Fires

The fact that the five police telephone boxes distributed throughout the borough have been recently painted red is not without significance. Fire alarms may now be turned in at these boxes, the connection being with police headquarters, Ardmore. The operator on duty there then notifies the fire company nearest to the scene of the blaze.

Better Homes Movement Gaining Momentum

The Better Homes in America fund is richer by $25 by virtue of the cake sale held last Saturday at Cotter's Market. It was in charge of Mrs. Cotter, Mrs. Joyce and Mrs. Cockrill.

The card party to be held at Elm Hall on February 28 will be the big money raiser for the campaign. It will be a luncheon-bridge with anticipation of 50 tables. Twenty-five women are working on the committee to insure its success.

The request is made that any women having old things, furniture, coverlets, etc., or remodeled things which they care to exhibit, they are requested to communicate with Mrs. E. H. Cockrill or Mrs. John Caldwell. Police protection is assured for everything loaned.

ORCHESTRA NEEDS MORE MEMBERSHIPS

Main Line Association Offers Special Rate to Music-Lovers.

NEXT CONCERT FEB. 13

With the second concert of the season scheduled to occur in less than two weeks, the Main Line Orchestra Association is making widespread efforts to increase the membership rolls before that time. Increased public support is being sought, with a lower rate for membership offered.

The Association was highly encouraged by the many comments on the excellence of the first concert of the organization, and began immediately to solicit additional membership. The campaign is under the direction of Joseph R. Mickle, business manager.

Supporting and associate memberships, in addition to offering an opportunity for residents to participate in the work of the orchestra, carry with them tickets for the performances. Five admissions are sent to each supporting member and two to each associate member. Rates for the rest of the season are $7.50 and $3.75 respectively.

"The Main Line Orchestra bids fair soon to become the outstanding amateur body of its kind in the country," a local music lover commented recently. Officers of the association are working for increased support in the hope that it may be possible for the musicians to present programs in other cities, thus carrying the name of the Main Line far beyond the present boundaries.

Memberships, which should be arranged for at once, may be taken out at the office of the association, 107 Ardmore avenue, or by mail to P. O. Box 7315, Ardmore.

Newspapers Topic at Rotary Club Meeting

The growth of the publishing business in the United States and a description of newspaper production methods formed the topic at the weekly luncheon of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club Tuesday. Philip A. Livingston, publisher of a chain of suburban weeklies, was the speaker.

Mr. Livingston showed the growth in number of periodicals from a handful in 1790 to more than 25,000 today, divided among publication issues daily, weekly, monthly and at various intervals under a dozen different systems. The talk, entitled "The Fourth Estate" was restricted to dailies and weeklies.

In the daily field the speaker brought out the growth of chain publishing, as seen in the increase of actual chain ownership, and in the spread chain news gathering and writing. A description of the recently invented teletypewriter was given, together with the showing of a specimen of the punched tape used to set up the same news item simultaneously in offices in scattered parts of the country.

The policy of his suburban papers was dwelt upon, with an explanation of the reasons for the inclusion or rejection of certain classes of news. A description of the actual production steps was also given.

The Library

We extend 2 welcome to Miss Mary Church, who takes up her duties today as librarian of the Narberth Community Library. We trust that her work here will be pleasant and that under her able guidance the Library may prosper and become more and more a true community institution.

Due to the loyalty and foresight of Mrs. E. K. Wood and her volunteer workers, the Library has now weathered its stormiest seas and from now on should sail serenely in still waters. Oddly enough the installation of a paid librarian comes on the Library's eighth anniversary. If the next eight years show a similar degree of progress and gain in public esteem, the Community Library may well become swollen with pride.

The new hours also are a cause for rejoicing. Particularly so to those who are in the city every day and whose only chance to use the Library is in the evening. Now instead of one evening a week, the doors will be open every day from 2 to 9 P. M. with no intermissions. This is an increase of 26 hours of service a week, a total of 42 as opposed to 16 heretofore.

The Borough Council, whose generosity in including the Library among its beneficiaries in the budget, thereby enabling the Library to carry out its plans, showed its realization of the important place the Library has in the community's life.

PETERS ASKS STATE TO TAKE OVER ROAD

Sees River Road as Part of Mill Creek Park System.

CODE REVISION URGED

Representative Fred C. Peters, of Ardmore, introduced a bill in the House this week, proposed by the Lower Merion Township Commissioners, asking the State Highway Department to take over River road from West Conshohocken borough line to West Manayunk bridge and then along Belmont avenue to its intersection with City Line. This would make a beautiful drive along the Schuylkill River and connect with the proposed Mill Creek Park system and the new bridge that may cross the river in the vicinity of Soapstone Farm, Mr. Peters said.

Among other bills presented by Mr. Peters were several that were proposed by the Pennsylvania State Association of Township Commissioners, of which Dr. Charles Seidel is Legislative Chairman. One bill requires the treasurers of all counties, except first class counties, to pay the treasurers of the several boroughs, townships and cities within the county, one-fourth of the net amount received from the tax for county purposes imposed on personal property. All sums payable to the treasurers of the townships, boroughs and cities under this act shall be in addition to any and all the sums required or authorized by law to be paid over to or expended for the benefit of such townships, boroughs, etc.

Complete revision of the Township Code and the amendment of present assessment methods were also introduced.

New Books to

Suit Every Taste

It used to be sufficient to divide all literature into two classes, fiction and nonfiction, but that was before J. S. Fletcher organized his detective story factory and long before Edgar Wallace bought his pocket typewriter. Since these two important events a third classification has been demanded by the mystery-solvers and while the fans or fiends themselves are discussing the delicate distinctions between mystery stories and detective stories the term "detective stories" by virtue of alphabetic authority becomes comprehensive enough to make the third division.

The list of new books ready for distribution now at the Narberth Library follows, and at the library are nearly 7000 others available to the public during the new hours, which are from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 o'clock in the evening every day in the week except Sunday, and including the hours of the evening meal.

TRUTH

Few people ever rise above that which they aim. Everyone, whether he be the richest or the poorest person on earth, has a desire for more; but having the desire alone will never accomplish it. If you come to a stream and there is no bridge, or boat, you can think it over, but that will not get you on the other side.

People who are winning in this great game of life have visualized a target called Success and they are aiming at it. That target may be beyond the reach of their present weapons, but they are making one that will—not by wishing, not by complaining, but by working.

Can we please our customers a little better; can we give a little better service; can we smile a little oftener; can we change our mode of thinking? Thought, that great unseen power, which guides us on our journey through life, will guide us to success and happiness, providing we think right.

Local Auto Specialists

People get the notion that all automobile specialists are in the city. This is not so.

At our Ardmore Service Station we have: an expert metal worker, grinding and re-boring men, stock room attendants, machinists, electrical workers, lubricating experts, washers, service men, and "trouble shooters."

The Dodge Brothers or Graham Brothers owner knows that he will be competently cared for at home.

Seek Three Voting Districts for South Ardmore, Two for Wynnewood

Creation of three districts out of one in South Ardmore, and two out of one in Wynnewood, is sought by several groups of voters in order to improve on conditions at the polling places in the fall election this year.

In a letter read by President Frank H. Sykes at the commission meeting in Ardmore on January 16, President J. C. Salvas and Secretary A. F. Knipe, of the Wynnewood Civic Association, stated "we wish to renew our application for another polling place in Wynnewood. We are perfectly satisfied with Andre MacDonald, our commissioner, and we do not want an additional township representative; but we want another polling place." It was pointed out that during the last election a long line of voters stood for a long time outside the one North Ardmore voting place; and that had there been bad weather, illness from exposure would have resulted.

South Ardmore is so dissatisfied with its one polling place that groups of residents are understood to be seeking three divisions of the district. Penn-Wynne and Overbrook-Hills-In-Merion, the groups of new homes in the east portion of the district, want a district of their own set up to avoid traveling to South Ardmore each election time.

The southern portion of the district and the northern part toward Lancaster pike are also said to be seeking a split with Argyle road as their dividing line. Interested in the developments are Commissioner William T. Abell, appointed by the county courts at Norris-town to fill the unexpired term of the late Campbell Carr, and whose term expires this year; and former Commissioner William Frankfield.

Action on the proposed district splits will be taken by the Republican party leaders some time before the September primary is held; but when, no one will at present say.

Upper Darby Girls Win

The Upper Darby High School girls' basketball team defeated the Lower Merion High sextet in their game at Upper Darby Tuesday afternoon 22 to 14. Scoring honors went to Miss Roberts, of Upper Darby, with six field goals and three fouls for a total of 15 points. Miss Esther Siter, Lower Merion captain, scored four field goals and one foul. Miss Betty Sellers also scored five points for Lower Merion. The team does not play again until February 12, when it meets Swarthmore High Girls at Ardmore.

The Old Main Line

The following historical sketch, which will be printed serially, was written by Margaret B. Harvey, and originally published in a volume issued by the Historical Society of Montgomery County in 1895. Entitled "Something About Lower Merion," it traces the history of the township from its beginnings to the 1890's with many delightful digressions.

"SOMETHING ABOUT LOWER MERION"

My knowledge of Lower Merion was chiefly learned upon a farm, my early home. You, my friends, may be able to put your finger upon a certain yellow patch in one of John Levering's township maps, but if you were to drive along the Old Lancaster road today, the road now called in fashionable parlance Montgomery avenue, and try to locate that yellow patch upon the green earth, your attempt would be vain. The landmarks of my ancestral home have been so completely obliterated that you could probably find the ruins of ancient Troy far more readily than you could the old walls of this quaint, stone Pennsylvania farm house.

Do I not well remember the grand catalpa at the gate, the dense grove of towering trees, the tall ash, the stately poplar, the fragrant-blossomed wild cherry? Do I not well remember the wilderness of old-fashioned roses, of creamy snowballs, of odor-breathing lilacs? Do I not well remember the long, rambling stone mansion, with broad piazza, sloping roof and picturesque dormer windows?

Now do not say to yourselves, this writer is giving us personal history; we care only for matters of general historic interest. I may be unfortunate in my mode of stating the fact, none the less it is true that my ancestral home is, or was, or ought to be, a locality of historic interest to the people of Lower Merion at least. I speak of the plants, small and great, which adorned a certain spot of ground in Lower Merion because so many of them were planted by a man who was in advance of his time, in his intense interest in horticulture and aboriginal culture; so that one of the first historic facts relating to the township which I ever learned, was that Edward Harvey, a lineal descendant of Fitz Herve, one of the Norman companions of William the Conqueror, descended also from Fox's earliest noble converts to Quakerism; Edward Harvey, a finished gentleman and scholar, unjustly deprived of his rightful inheritance in Ireland, and seeking to adorn his new home in the Quaker State of Pennsylvania, was the first to introduce into Lower Merion the alanthus tree. Smile if you will; call this anti-climax; but have you never heard that he who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before may be called a benefactor to humanity? In those days the alanthus was prized as the rare tree from "Paradise," the far-famed "Tree of Heaven." He who sought to give to his beloved home of his adoption a precious plant, never lived to discover his mistake; and if he cultivated the ill-scented alanthus, he also strove to nurture the fig and rose.

And why did I speak of the low, many-windowed stone mansion whose odd nooks and corners, whose carved mantel-piece and bull's-eye window-pane in the dining room, whose black "cubby-hole" in the garret moved my childish admiration? Was it because the latest wing was erected in 1762, or because the oldest portion was older than any date could tell, or because later neighbors remember when all the beauty of the house was spoiled by attempted modern improvements? Or because the rooms were furnished with shabby, faded Brussels carpets, and ugly, big-patterned ingrain, relics of a past time of grandeur, when common folks had to put up with rag floor coverings and with a stiff hair sofa and tall sideboard, carved, solid, mahogany bedsteads and tables, and other quaint pieces which we degenerate younger ones thought decidedly out of date, and despised accordingly; or because certain cedar chests held mysterious boxes which we never expected to see opened, but which we have since learned contained old miniatures, bits of rare lace, and precious pieces of silver engraved with the family crest, a leopard grasping a shamrock in its extended paw? Oh, no! But because my dear old home, as I remember it, represents better than any other example of which I know the very ideal of a Pennsylvania mansion of times past—of a time extending from the days of Penn himself to the last decade. I, as you see me, am yet a young woman, but I have lived to witness a tremendous upheaval. Lower Merion but repeats the history of the world at large; my grandfather's farm, Lilac Grove, repeats the history of Lower Merion. Formerly, farm houses such as that in which he lived were to be found everywhere throughout the whole district, but they will soon become so rare as to excite remark when seen.

My grandfather's house, once considered elegant, has since given place to a modern palace, a triumph of art and wealth; the trees and shrubs tended by his hand as a labor of love are replaced by the marvelous leaf and color creations of the landscape gardener.

The era of grey stone mansions of ample proportions, built only for comfort and hospitality, is passing away; the era of ginger-bread castles and crazy patch-work palaces has come; and we, who inherit the traditions of old days, can only look on and wonder, if we do not precisely deplore. But whether for good or ill, humanity marches forward; for good we must have faith to believe, if we would not have the past, however, we love to dwell upon it, dwarf our future. Humanity is progressing in Lower Merion; it is rapidly solving all the old problems as to how man shall live hygienically, virtuously, wisely and nobly. It is not without effort that I say it, but I, who represent the remaining few in Lower Merion, standing as it were between the past and the future looking lovingly, even tearfully backward, and yet longingly, trustingly forward—I can say that God may have a use for a red-and-yellow palace, just as He had for a gray stone farm house. If, by removing the latter to make room for the former He saw fit to indicate one of the means by which humanity might go forward from a beautiful but still imperfect past to a far more beautiful, a glorious future—still will I say, God's will be done!

Junior High Defeats Upper Darby, 28 to 20

Coach Fowler's Lower Merion Junior High basketball team won a hard fought Suburban league game at Upper Darby Junior High last Friday, 28 to 20. Brubaker, the lanky center from Bryn Mawr furnished the extra effort which brought the victory to Lower Merion. Brubaker sank four field goals and two fouls and his height enabled him to keep possession of the ball for his teammates on the rebounds from the backboard. Today the team goes to West Chester to engage the league leaders in the most important game of the season. The championship probably will depend on the result.

Miss Walbaum and Mrs. How are to continue as professional consultants of the staff.

As a token of appreciation of their services, Dr. Mutch on behalf of the Executive Committee presented Miss Walbaum and Mrs. How with pewter bowls appropriately inscribed.

Edward Y. Hartshorne, treasurer, reported a balance of $1 on January 1. Miss Walbaum gave a brief summary of her official connection with the organization during the last ten years. In closing she bespoke for Miss Alice H. Ambler, the new executive secretary, the same loyal co-operation she had received.

Offers Suggestions.

Mrs. How, in her address, made suggestions of three practical community needs which she hopes this organization may help to satisfy in the future. First, is the continuation and enlargement of Miss Ambler's program of teaching the art of home-making to as many housekeepers as possible. Perhaps as a part of home-making might be included organization and instruction of visiting housekeepers to help out in any home at time of illness of the home-maker. Secondly, Mrs. How saw the need of some means of bringing together more effectively than is now done men who want work and possible employers so that seasonal employment and lack of employment for willing, able men will not be so prevalent as at present. The third was the extension of occupational therapy to clients of the organization as well as to all who might benefit by it in the community.

Miss Ambler then spoke of the esteem with which the work of Miss Walbaum, Mrs. How and of the organization is held by other organizations in other parts of the country as well as locally. She spoke appreciatively of the services rendered by the Executive Committee, the Auxiliary Committee and special sub-committees, bespeaking their co-operation and service for the coming year.

Unanimously Elected.

The Rev. Howard Wayne Smith, of Ardmore, made the following report for the Nominating Committee:

President, Rev. Andrew Mutch; first vice president, Rev. William A. Kieffer; second vice president, Rev. A. C. Kaninger; secretary, Curtis L. Clay; treasurer, E. Y. Hartshorne. Members at large: Miss Eveline C. Walbaum, Mrs. William C. Lade, Mrs. J. Howard Cloud, Mrs. Arnold Gerstell, Mrs. S. E. Downs.

These officers and members-at-large were unanimously elected for the ensuing year.

The Rev. Mr. Kaninger, second vice president, called attention to the $1 balance in the treasury and the need not only for churches, civic organizations and for individuals to contribute financial aid more liberally and to do it promptly as during these winter days much is needed for relief.

Rev. Ney, of Brookline; Rev. Van Ness, of Narberth; Rev. Smith, of Ardmore; Rev. Rawson, of Ardmore and Rev. Kieffer, of Llanerch, all seemed to welcome an opportunity to express their pleasure in being associated with the retiring executives and to pledge their support to the new regime.

The meeting was opened with a prayer for the Rev. Dr. Shumway. The benediction was given by the Rev. Davidson.

trol. Laws made between 1796 and 1897 are obsolete and unenforced though they still remain on the books. Eastern State codes are full of such laws; middle western States have fewer, while on the west coast the statutes are more nearly modern. In California, for instance, there is no restrictive legislation on the spread of information about birth control. New York has had a birth control league for 25 years. New York also has successful clinics as have Chicago, Denver and cities in California.

"Many of the evils of overpopulation, disease, limited education and financial distress may be ascribed," the speaker said, "to a lack of knowledge of birth control among the working classes."

Attention of those attending the meeting was called to the conference to be held at the Bellvue-Stratford on Wednesday, February 27, by the Southeastern Pennsylvania Birth Control League.

Fellowship Gives Party; Entertains Neighbors

The Young People's Fellowship and the choir of All Saints' Church, Wynnewood, gave a card party at the Parish House on Saturday evening, January 26. After playing several rounds, the scores were computed and various prizes awarded to the "sharks." Refreshments of ice cream and home-made cake were served, then the victrola was started and dancing prevailed for the remainder of the evening.

The hard work of the committee in charge and several contributions from members of the Parish made the affair a financial success. The returns will go to buy new vestments for the choir. The party was also a social success and everyone appeared to have spent a pleasant evening.

At the regular meeting on Sunday evening, January 27, the Fellowship had as guests the Fellowship of St. John's Church, Cynwyd. The program consisted of musical numbers from several members of the All Saints' Fellowship.

Mr. Palmer Read played four xylophone solos: "Al Fresco," a march by Victor Herbert; "Kiss Me Again," "Flapperette" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia." He also played "Sonny Boy" on the musical saw. Miss Margaret Perry played a piano solo, "The Minuet," by Paderewski. Miss Catherine Getz sang "Neopolitan Nights," accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Veneman. Mr. William R. Dohard played a saxophone solo, "Indian Love Call," arranged and accompanied by Miss Catherine Getz.

Refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned.

Snow on the Ground

When the Pilgrims landed, they had little difficulty in preserving their meat, that first, terrible winter.

For two reasons: They had little meat to keep, after crossing the Atlantic; and this they stored carefully, out-of-doors, where the snow swirled.

Nowadays refrigeration is no problem, and there is plenty of good meat, such as that delivered to your neighbors twice a day by the
